After a classical ballet career in Russia and Europe Tatjana Wegner remembered the Bollywood movies of her childhood and fell in love with traditional Indian dance. She studied it for several years. In combination with her fitness education she developed her training and dancing concept of BollyDance in 2000.

The show invites you to a journey through India for a whole evening. The director Sebastiano Toma combines dances of the BollyDance Company in authentic and sparkling costumes with a line-up of various acrobats. Parts of the presentation are projections of famous Indian palaces and landscapes to the sounds of popular Indian hits. The typical flair of the show convinced even the Bollywood-producer Vivek Singhania to book the BollyDance Company for his brandnew movie "Aap Kaa Suror" featuring the Rockstar Himesch Reshammiya (more movie-engagements are planned). Don't miss this Indian dream on stage. Impressions on our website: www.bollydance.de

Colourful India with its different cultures, various melodies and long history inspired me to create BollyDance. European dance traditions as well as the unique Indian dance-styles are the ingredients of my "Masala" (Indian Seasoning) which I teach in my lessons. BollyDance is a very energetic workout which combines elements of Hip-Hop, Bollywood choreographies and Aerobic in very motivating fitness-lessons. An inspiring workout with traditional combinations, Indian gestures (mudras) and lively music. The unique BollyDance-concept became very popular in Germany as you can see according to the wide media impact. You'll find publications in general interest magazines like (BRIGITTE, BILD or Fit for Fun), special interest titles (ISHQ, Vital or Vive) or on air for various TV-Stations like ARTE, RTLII or Sat 1.
